Correction to: Journal of NeuroEngineering and Rehabilitation (2025) 22:135 <https://doi.org/10.1186/s12984-025-01661-5>

In the sentence beginning ‘Our results demonstrate that not using the ... in demanding (e.g. time-limited) situations.’ in the Conclusions heading under the Abstract section of this article [1], The word “not” needs to be deleted from the sentence.

The corrected sentence is ‘Our results demonstrate that using the non-paretic arm may reflect a habit response that is more readily triggered in demanding (e.g. time-limited) situations.’

The original article has been corrected.
